Teaching gives me the opportunity to share my passion for global citizenship. I am a life-long learner, and hope to instill that same desire in my students, helping them to find understanding and acceptance.

I believe a great teacher can impact a child's life in an enduring and positive way. I am committed to making a significant difference in the life of every student, colleague, and parent I interact with.

My personal objective is to continue learning about the world in an environment that nurtures my creative development and to help my students do the same. I hope to lead the change for other teachers to follow.
